

Lift us out of the shadows

Away from the darkness, there is light
That shines on those hidden from sight
Forced to live in shadows and fear
Help is wanted, no help is near

Bodies sold, their souls not free
Forced into a life hard to flee
But they hold onto hope, a glimmer of light
One day everything will be alright

Prayers for everyday
One day, that their captors will pay
They're no different from me and you
They're no different and its unfair what they do

The world may not see, but they're not alone
Their voices may be quiet, but they have grown
Stronger with each passing day, they strive
To break free and make it out alive
The ones who hold them must be brought to light
Their odious crimes can no longer be kept out of sight
We must lift up those who have been pushed down
And fight against modern-day slavery because it's been around

Let us join hands and lift them high
We should all have freedom, it is a right
To a world where they can choose their path, their own way
And leave behind the darkness, forever to stay.
